SALE OF LANDS IN ARGYLE-SHIRE.

TO BE SOLD by public roup, within the Exchange Coffeehouse, Edinburgh, upon Wednesday the 1st day of March next, between five and six o'clock afternoon.

The extensive estates of DUNTRON, on Lochcrinan, and of OIB, on Lochfween; lying about 25 miles south-west of Inverary, in the parishes of Kilmartine and North Knapdale, and shire of Argyle. The present free rent is upwards of 900 L. Sterling, and still improvable; of which that of Oib is better than 200 L. Sterling, and will be exposed separately in Lots, or together, as formerly advertised.

The tenants are thriving, the situation of the estate pleasant and convenient, the communication easy, the soil excellent, and the woods extensive and flourishing.

There is a commodious mansion-house with offices, pleasantly situated upon Lochcrinan, whence the Canal (an object now under the view of the Legislature) is intended to be executed across Lochgilphead. The estate of Oib has also an excellent situation for a place of residence. A more complete and desirable property rarely appears in the market.

For further particulars enquire at John Moir writer to the signet, Edinburgh, who will show the rentals, plans, surveys, and title-deeds of the estates; at Duncan Campbell writer, Inverary, or Mr. Alexander Ross, accountant in Edinburgh; who will treat as to a private bargain. John Campbell, schoolmaster at Duntroun, will show that estate; and John Campbell at Tayloch, the estate of Oib.

These lands, containing altogether 1050 acres, or thereabouts, situated in a pleasant part of the country, are of an excellent soil, and capable of great improvement, of which they have the means within themselves; for, within these few months, a valuable lime quarry has been discovered in the grounds, which may be wrought by the proprietor, upon payment of surface damages, that right having been reserved in the lease.

The present free rent, payable by good tenants, on current tacks, is about 270 L. Sterling. The whole houses and offices on the different farms have, at very great expense, been lately rebuilt or repaired.

The estate was surveyed by a gentleman of great skill, in the year 1776, and was then valued by him at 9649 L. Sterling; but, for the encouragement of purchasers, it will now be exposed at 6300 L.

The rent-roll, current leases, conditions of roup, and progress of writs, will be seen in the hands of James Campbell, writer in Edinburgh; and, for further particulars, application may be made to Alexander Farquharson, accountant in Edinburgh, who has power to sell by private bargain.

From the BOSTON GAZETTE of the 27th of November.
By the United States in Congress assembled, Oct. 12, 1785.
On motion of the delegates for Massachusetts, seconded by the delegates for the State of Virginia, resolved, that a Committee be appointed to report what measures are proper for Congress to adopt, to prevent the ill consequences of a particular district in any State setting up and claiming the right of independent governments, without the consent of the said State and the United States.

From the VIRGINIA GAZETTE of Oct. 22.
The last papers from South-Carolina confirm the disagreeable intelligence of the anarchy at present prevailing in that State; the produce of the country has bore no proportion to their enormous importations since the peace. Their mode of living, perhaps more profuse and luxurious than in any other part of the Continent, increases the evil. The day of payment arrives, arrests and imprisonments alarm the community, and every man becomes tremblingly alive for the misfortunes of his neighbours, expecting his turn next. Thus the magnitude of the evil suggests a desperate remedy; they stop the course of law; so that throughout this wealthy State, except in Charlestown, the seat of government, a sheriff dares not serve a writ, or levy an execution.

LONDON, Dec. 31.

It is reported with great confidence, that Spain has positively demurred in the matter respecting the cession of the two Floridas to France; and that she has offered to cede both these provinces to Great Britain, on her providing an equivalent, which the French are said not at this time to possess.

On Tuesday last his Majesty went to Staines, to see the new improvements in the cotton manufactory there, which are so admired by the cognoscenti in machinery, that the whole apparatus is deemed the wonder of the age.

Mr Eden sets off for Paris on Saturday se'ennight, that being the time at present fixed for his departure.

The Marquis of Buckingham, who has been exceedingly indisposed, is much better, and pronounced by his physicians to be out of danger.

This day a report has been propagated that positive advice is received of the death of Mr Alderman Wilkes, at Bath. If the report is founded, that gentleman's death must have been very sudden, as yesterday's post brought letters franked by Mr Wilkes from Bath, which were of course dated on Thursday last.

The Ganges, Williamson, for India, sailed from Gravesend on Wednesday afternoon, and the Halfewell, Pierce, for India, sailed from ditto Thursday afternoon.

On Thursday evening last Mr Fowler, Purser of the Halfewell East-Indiaman, Captain Richard Pierre, commander, received the dispatches from the India-House, and set off express for Gravesend. The ship is bound for Bengal.

Letters from Amsterdam mention, that they had received accounts from the Cape of Good Hope, of a Dutch planter having discovered on an island near that settlement, the wreck of a large ship, from which he had brought off a great quantity of valuable stores, and several chests of English money. The same advices say, it was generally supposed the ship was the Doddington East-Indiaman, lost on that coast above twenty years since.

By the last accounts from the Cape of Good Hope, brought by Admiral Mitchell's squadron, we learn, that the inhabitants of that settlement were heartily tired of their late visitants the French, though the latter greatly improved the fortifications at that port. The lines, about 400 paces north of the town, have been strengthened with redoubts, and, being 550 fathoms above the surface of the water, are deemed exceedingly strong.

On both sides of the town the French have constructed two batteries, and a crown work of forty guns, 24 pounders. The improvements are disgraced by several racks, a high gallows, and other instruments of torture.

The people at Cape Town, during the late war, were under the greatest apprehensions of a visit from our forces; a circumstance which would probably have destroyed the colony from the inveteracy the free Hottentots bear to the Batavians.

The Governor and Commander in Chief of the troops shewed the greatest civilities to our people last autumn. The latter was in the Prussian service at the famous battle of Colin, and expressed the greatest regret that any disagreement should happen between this country and Holland, which he said were natural allies. The members of the regency expressed themselves to several of our officers to the same purport. In short, our people left this delightful part of Africa with the strongest impressions of the civility and hospitality shewn them by all ranks of people.

The celebrated gardens, belonging to the Dutch East India Company at the Cape, have been within these two years greatly enlarged and improved by a number of curious plants from the interior parts of Africa.

These gardens have been spoken of in very high terms by M. Bouganville, and Kolbe, the botanist; but according to the account of our correspondent, who was lately on the spot, by no means deserve the extraordinary character they have obtained, being only 600 paces broad, and 1200 long, and chiefly planted in the old Dutch taste, so sensibly ridiculed by Mr Pope, with culinary herbs, elms, myrtles, &c. where every alley "has its brother."

The pleasure-garden is small, but furnished with beds of most scarce and valuable flowers, and the physic garden well stored with exotic vegetables.

Unless the Grand Signor should hazard a revolution that may send him from his throne to his grave, by sacrificing too much to the Court of Vienna and to peace, a war is likely to break out between the two formidable Emperors of Germany and Turkey, the forms of whom will be supported by the whole power of Russia, the Empress of which wishes to secure to herself and successor the possession of the Crimea, by putting it out of the power of the Turks to assert their ancient title to the supremacy over that vast province. Our readers will remember, that for some time back there have been negotiations between the Courts of Vienna and Constantinople, in order to ascertain and fix for ever the limits and boundaries of the two empires. In the course of the last month, the Divan desired to know the ultimatum of the Emperor of Germany on this head. The following is precisely the answer which the Imperial Joseph has transmitted to the Porte, and which contains the final demands of the Court of Vienna, from which the Emperor has declared he will not depart in a single article.

1. That the fortresses of Wilhacz being absolutely necessary, as well to stop the inroads of the wandering Hords, as to prevent the desertion of his Imperial Majesty's troops, the cession of the districts in Croatia, situated beyond the river Unna (offered by the Porte) cannot by any means be accepted, unless the above fortresses be included in the districts offered to be ceded.
2. If the Porte consents to cede to the Emperor what belongs to it, in the province of Wallachia, as far as the river Unna, the court of Vienna will consent to waive its claim to an extension of its territories as far as the river Save, and suffer the boundaries of Bosnia and Herzogewin to remain in statu quo.
3. If the Porte consents to the second proposition, it will be then necessary, that as often as there shall be a question of deposing the Hospodar, or Prince of Wallachia, in order to substitute another in his place, notice must be previously given to his Imperial Majesty, who shall be made acquainted with the motives of the revolution; and the aforesaid Prince of Wallachia, for the time being, shall be bound to deliver up all deserters from the Austrian army, that may take refuge in his dominions.

4. The troops of his Imperial Majesty shall be put in possession of the fortresses of Orfowa.

5. On these terms his Imperial Majesty will observe the strictest peace, and cultivate a sincere amity with the Sublime Porte.

Those terms, however, are so very unfavourable to the Turks, that it is much suspected at Vienna, the Sultan will not dare to accede to them; the most objectionable is the third article, by which the Porte would lose the sovereignty of Wallachia, the Prince of which she could no longer depose without the approbation of the Emperor of Germany. This is not a mere matter of etiquette or pride; for by the frequent changes of the Walachian Princes, a very large revenue arises to the Porte from the very large sums paid by every new Prince on his investiture.

The plan for settling the colony of Genevans in Ireland has been nearly given up; but the French, more wise than our government, have resolved to give every encouragement to such of the Genevans as have been bred up in the watch-making business, who will settle near Paris. Mons. de Calonne, the Chancellor of the Exchequer of France, has actually established a watch manufactory, just on the outside the gate or barrier of Chailior, near the Etoile (or Star) at the gates of Paris. The Minister has placed at the head of this manufactory Mr Vincent, a Genevan, who is to enjoy all the franchises granted to the royal manufacturers, on condition that he takes French apprentices.

The arrest against the admission of British manufactures into the Austrian Netherlands, may be deemed good policy; but it says little either for the justice or magnanimity of the Sovereign of those dominions. It is the effect of mere pique against our monarch for what he has lately done as Elector of Hanover; and consequently the pitiful resource of an ignoble spirit; which, without a proper distinction, reflects against his Majesty in one capacity what his duty requires of him in another. But what has Britain to do with German regulations? Or has Joseph so much forgot what this country has done for Maria Theresa? But let him forget, or let him be ungrateful, if his memory does not fail him, it is all one to us in the event. He cannot do us the hurt he intends; and he only exposes himself by showing his teeth, without having the power to bite. The Netherlands cannot do without the manufactures of this country; they must have them through other channels, if not directly from ourselves; and therefore, he only gives himself the trouble of altering the mode of conveyance, without any material injury to the traffick. St. J. Chron.

The advantages of the General Chamber of Manufacturers daily become more conspicuous. By the combined influence of all the manufacturing bodies in the kingdom, their intelligence of all events, affecting the commerce of England, must be early and genuine.

We understand that three respectable Members of the Chamber of Manufactures have expressed their readiness to set out for Manchester, for the purpose of concerting every proper and constitutional measure, to protect the Manufactures from the unavoidable ruin with which they are menaced by the Austrian arrest.

Notice was on Wednesday given by the Chairman of the General Chamber of Commerce, that he had that day received advice, which might be depended on, that in a very short time an arrest would be published, imposing a duty amounting almost to a prohibition, upon all English manufactures imported into the Austrian Netherlands.

An express arrived at six o'clock on Tuesday evening, at an eminent merchant's in the city, with an account of the proceedings now going on at Manchester. It states, that the moment the information was received, that the Emperor's long-menaced interdiction, with respect to the English manufactures, was announced from authority, as having actually been carried into effect, the utmost consternation seized all ranks of the inhabitants. An immediate meeting was held of the principal merchants of the place, where it was with one voice admitted, that if the edict in question was not by some ministerial intervention instantly abrogated, there was an end put at once to the commerce and affluence of that once flourishing place.

A variety of coins and other reliques have lately been dug up in Lombard-street, where a new sewer is laying; an additional proof, among the many others well known to every one, how much the level of the city is raised within the present century. There are the colonades of churches or cloisters in the cellars of many houses in the city.

A correspondent has learned a new species of fraud committed upon the Bank. A person had paid ten pounds in cash to the cashier, and received as usual a square bit of paper, with the number, date, and words, ten pounds. This document ought to have been carried immediately to the clerk to make out the note, instead of which he took it home, and curiously altered it to one hundred, and returning, obtained the note for that sum. Since the detection, two other frauds of the same nature have been discovered.

An officer, whom we suppose to be on the Irish establishment, advertised in a morning paper of Saturday, that he had lost a draft on Mess. Cox and Greenwood of 10 l. but he very judiciously added, that it could be of no use to any person but the owner, as it was not endorsed by the last endorser.

The voyage round the world, undertaken by Chevalier de la Peyrouse, has two objects; one to keep close to the southern coasts of Asia, and to endeavour to discover a passage between it and America, communicating with the European sea. The other object of his circumnavigation is to visit the most distant shores, in order to correct the present charts, which flood in the greatest need of it. When the vessels come to an anchor, the commander has received express orders to encourage the botanists to go ashore, and gather the most curious plants, and make other salutary discoveries.

A few days since Mr Reynolds took an inquisition at Tavistock on Roger Bayley, an infirm old man, upwards of eighty years of age, found dead in the King's highway, near Tavistock. The history of Roger Bayley and his brother being very singular, we cannot avoid taking notice of it. Both were many years ago buried in a tin mine, in Cornwall, for ten nights and eleven days without sustenance, and taken up alive, and in their deaths, since, both subject to a coroner's inquisition. Philip Bayley was about three years ago killed by the fury of an he ass, within a few miles of Tavistock, who bit and threw him down from off a she ass, on which he was riding, and dragged him, with one of the man's legs in his mouth, upwards of 200 yards, and then bit and beat him with his feet on the ground, so that he was all over full of mortal wounds and bruises; and the poor old man was so weak and infirm, that he could not resist or help himself. This happened on a Saturday morning, and the poor man being found, and taken home to his house, languished in the most excruciating tortures till Sunday evening, and then died. Strange as it may appear, it was given to Mr Reynolds on oath, that within an hour of the poor man's dissolution, the same ass came to the man's door (near three miles from the place where the accident happened) and by beating with his feet against the door, and roaring, did all he could to get into the house, a circumstance very extraordinary to the family, as, from their apprehension of things, the same appeared supernatural, or, at least, very uncommon. The ass, on the coroner's inquest, became a deodand, forfeited to his Grace the Duke of Bedford. The people of Tavistock endeavoured in vain, by dogs, to kill him, and therefore they were obliged to shoot him.

Derby, Dec. 28. On Tuesday the 20th inst. in the neighbourhood of Cattleton in the High-Peak:—As Mr Bennet, Mr Seddon, and several other gentlemen, were pursuing the diversion of coursing, they put up a hare at the foot of the celebrated MAM-TOR, a mountain elevated about 800 feet above the valley in which the town of Cattleton is situated; she run directly up the steep ascent, and was followed by three greyhounds. When they came to the top, the hare found herself so closely pursued, that she had no other alternative but suffering immediate death by the dogs, or throwing herself upon an abrupt and perpendicular precipice, (measuring at least 150 yards.) She made choice of the latter, and the dogs, from the impetuosity of the pursuit, were carried down the same dreadful descent. The fate of all was what might be expected; they were found dead at the bottom by the company.

Extract of a Letter from the Hague, Dec. 22, by express.
"It is reported, we know not upon what authority, that the difference between the Prince Stadtholder and the States, is settled by the mediation of the British and Prussian Courts, with whom he is allied by family; and his return to this place is expected very speedily."

Extract of a letter from Virginia, November, 1.

"The new States have struck upon a rock at their first outset, a rock which will prove their destruction; they not only confiscated the estates of Loyalists, but their malice went to oppress every moderate man; they have by that means banished the rich, and only the poor and the wretched remain; for, upon my honour, when I call to mind the state of these provinces twenty years ago, and compare them with what they now are, I have not in the least exaggerated my account of them; they have no money; they have no sort of substitute for money. As to banks, they cannot be established for want of confidence."

"Their shipping is at its last gasp; instead of being the carriers of Britain for all the produce of her islands, in which 10,000 of their sailors got bread, the British ships have the sole business to do. The States lose so many seamen, England gets just as many more. What an important object is this!"

"They are not only cut out of the lucrative West-India trade, but their fisheries are so cramped and so rivalled, they are and must be every where underfed. The Algerines are swarming in search of them! the danger is such that no seamen will venture to end their lives in slavery without very high wages; no underwriter can be found to insure for less than double premium; what trade can bear these burdens? Such is the deplorable situation of their foreign commerce; the state of their agriculture is no better. The India nations are all in arms, and as their manner is murdering all before them in the cruellest mode, such as feasting and feasting the unhappy victims alive, the farmers are terrified to reside on their grounds; the crops are neglected, and their fields must remain totally uncultivated: hence must follow hunger, famine, and its necessary concomitant, the plague! for it is not in the power of the State to make head against these savages; their way of fighting is so desultory, that a hundred thousand regulars are unequal to the task; and as to entering into treaty with them, that will depend upon the longest purse. You may believe that the British Cabinet are not asleep or inattentive to the Canadians and Nova Scotia! You may guess who will hold out the belt of lures. Woe be to those who do not gain their love. The new States don't, you may conjecture how soon their will follow; for what with the sterility of their fields, unfowled and unploughed, and ships rotting for want of freight, or cured when laden, they are certainly in a condition not much to be envied. How far you may think them in so flourishing a condition as to be trusted, you are to judge."

Extract of a letter from Windsor, Dec. 27.

"This morning, passed through this town, in his way London, the Indian Chief, Joseph Brandt, lately arrived from America, who greatly distinguished himself in the cause of his country during the American war. He had paid a visit in Forest to his old friend Colonel Emmerick, where he spent his holidays."

EDINBURGH.

Extract of a letter from London, Dec. 31.

"It is said, the Cabinet has been much divided with respect to the propriety of Great Britain having any concern with the German league. The Premier, it is given out, was much against the measure; but he was over-ruled. How this will be relished by him, time only can determine. There are not wanting many, however, and those, too, of the first abilities, who approve of his conduct, considering Great Britain as always in the wrong, when they interfere too deeply in Continental concerns.

"A meeting is said to be summoned, at the Board of India Control, for an early day next week, at which Mr Eden is to attend, on the subject of the several clauses in the commercial treaty to be negotiated with France, respecting the trade of the East India Company, and the land and naval force, to be kept up for the future in the East Indies; for, it seems, in all the commercial treaties going forward, the regulation of trade is not more the object in view, than the establishing such a fleet and army, as may coincide with the economical designs of the respective parties, and the wishes they express for a general peace.

"The Cabinet is reported to be every day more and more perplexed, from the present situation of affairs on the Continent; and it is said to be the opinion of the major part of the Ministry, that we should rather recede from the German confederacy, than hazard the loss of our trade with Russia. But this is thought by no means to be agreeable to a certain Great Personage.

"It is whispered in the political circles at the west end of the town, that should the navy of Great Britain be limited by the treaty of commerce with France, a resignation of a great naval character will take place.

"The framing the King's speech to be delivered at the opening of Parliament, is held a matter of so much consequence, that it is said to be already prepared, and copies of it given to the members of the Cabinet to con over in their several recesses during the holidays. The East Indies, and the affairs of Ireland, are among the topics touched upon; and much panegyric is said to be bestowed on the high state of the funds, and the measures to be pursued for the establishing public credit. The intended marriages of several branches of the Royal Family is said also to be hinted at; but the business brought most forward is reported to be the adjusting of such commercial treaties with the several powers of Europe, as may best tend to the security of trade, and the preservation of peace, in the pursuit of which great ends, the unanimity of Parliament is recommended as essentially necessary."

Monday, died, at his house in Prince's Street, John Wemyss, Esq; late Lieutenant Governor of Edinburgh Castle. Mrs Jean Dalrymple, relict of Mr Thomas Gibbons, one of the principal Clerks of Session, died here on Saturday last.

On the 1st instant, died, the Rev. Mr Alexander Bryce, minister of the gospel at Kirknewton, in the 72d year of his age, and the 40th of his ministry.

The frost still continues as intense as ever. On Saturday night last, about 12 o'clock, a house of 3 stories, in the Gorbals, Glasgow, was discovered to be on fire, and notwithstanding the immediate assistance of the inhabitants and fire engines it was soon burnt to the ground. We are sorry to add, that an old woman was burnt to death that inhabited the 3d storey, and another woman very much scorched.

Friday afternoon a chaise driver was found dead in the Gallowgate, Glasgow, owing, it is supposed, to the intense cold, he having just come post from Greenock with a company.

We hear from Banff, that, on Wednesday last, there came ashore on that coast, from Whitehills to Gardenstown, a quantity of deals and other wood, with several pieces of a wreck. One of the oars had painted on it, the Fortune of Scarborough. The vessel had been drove among the rocks by the hard gale at north, the night before, and all on board perished.

We are also informed, that some parts of a wreck of a ship have been thrown ashore between Montrose and Red Head.

The Livingston, Gordon, was in Sheerness Roads, 29th December, all well.

The Leith, Clouston, and Catharine and Peggy, Dowie, are arrived at Liverpool from the Baltic.

Last week, the Young John, Andreas Christians master, of and from Copenhagen, for Amsterdam, with tea, sugars, &c. put into Peterhead in distress, without sails or provisions.

Arrivals in Leith, from January 1785 to January 1786, including great and small, 1721 vessels. In the former year, there were 1759; which is a decrease of 38. If, however, it is considered, that there was a great importation of foreign grain in 1784, to which the number of arrivals that year was to be ascribed, the trade at Leith is in a more flourishing state than in any former period.

Extract of a letter from Aberdeen, Jan. 2.
"The week before last, a woman belonging to Lochell, on her journey home, put up at the public house of Dykenook, from whence she set out at four in the morning, and was shortly after attacked by two men, who came out of Balmuir Park, who knocked her off her horse, beat her, and a boy who was along with her, very severely, and robbed her of 40 s.

"Last week, a great deal of snow has fallen; but, as there was no drifting, the communication with the country is not in any degree stopped."

VILLA AT LAURISTOWN.

TO be SOLD, that HOUSE, PARK, and GARDEN at Lauriestown, presently possessed by Mr Robertson printer. The House consists of 12 fire-rooms, with closets, and other conveniences.—In the principal storey, which is 13 feet high, is a drawing-room, dining-room, parlour, and library—in the upper storey, four bed-rooms, with closets to each—in the under storey, a kitchen, a large room to the fourth, three other rooms, with pantry, cellars, catacombs, &c. There is also a cold bath—a coach-house and stable, with stalls for three horses—likewise an ice-house, at present possessed on a different tack. There is a pump-well of excellent water within 9 feet of the House, from which it is conveyed into the kitchen by a leaden pipe; and, in a short time, the inhabitants of this district will have the advantage of the town's water, for which a reservoir is building in the neighbourhood.

The House stands in a warm dry situation, on a gentle declivity to the south. The prospects from it are extensive and delightful. And while it is, in every respect, a country residence, it has all the advantages and conveniences of a house in town. It is nigh the University, and other public schools; is only a few minutes walk from the Cross; and the road to the house is as well lighted in the evenings as any street in the city. There is now also an easy access to the New Town by the Lothian road.

The whole ground consists of about six Scots acres; of which two acres are laid out in a garden, the rest in grass. It is completely inclosed, both from without, and also by a sunk fence within; round which is a serpentine walk, with shrubbery, and a flower border. The garden is well stored with fruit trees of the best kinds, which bear well; and contains about 550 feet of fruit wall, besides espaliers and standards. At the foot of the park is an entry to the Meadow, very convenient for walking.

The whole premises pay only 5 s. yearly of feu-duty, which is not a shilling per acre. This ground, so very near the city, is now becoming more valuable, on account of the new South Bridge, which, by opening an easy communication between the Old and New Towns, will make it a desirable place for building on.

The house may be seen on Tuesdays and Fridays, between twelve and two o'clock.

The whole, or any part of the price, may remain in the hands of the purchaser, upon proper security.

For further particulars, apply to the proprietor at the house.

There are about ten acres of wood, and a good deal of timber on this farm; and thriving belts of planting surround the greatest part of it. The tenants are bound to preserve the planting and woods, which are fully fenced.

There will be sold, at the same time, THREE STOREYS of the CORNER HOUSE situated at the east end of Prince's Street, New Town, Edinburgh, in three lots.

For Disorders in the Stomach and Bowels, Nervous Cases, and Constitutions debilitated by free living or natural infirmity,

THE CELEBRATED ORIENTAL VEGETABLE CORDIAL,

By his Majesty's Royal Letters Patent.

THE oriental Vegetable Cordial, to which the health and longevity of the Asiatic tribes are chiefly owing, hath fortunately been discovered by a Physician of eminence in India. This medicine proves to be peculiarly adapted to the climate of England; it gives immediate relief in all sudden and painful disorders of the stomach and bowels, whether caused by irritation, indigestion, or excess; and is so perfectly harmless in its nature, that whether the disorder be the effect of cold or of heat, it may be used with the utmost safety. It effectually corrects the bile, and of course removes the numerous and grievous symptoms with which bilious patients are afflicted, and which generally constitute the cafes that are derided under the various denominations of Nervous, Hysterical, and Hypochondriacal.

This invaluable medicine, if applied in time, will restore the digestive faculties of the stomach, whether it be relaxed by habitual intemperance, or enfeebled by natural infirmity; and if taken in the infant that inconvenience is felt either from occasional irregularity, or from the frequent and sudden changes in the temperature of the air, to which English constitutions are subject, it would reduce the catalogue of diseases, and make the use of any other medicine unnecessary.
